DESPONDENT WOMAN SHOOTS HERSELF WITH SHOTGUN

Mrs. F. L. Woollard, Brooding Over Sister's Death, Tries Suicide—May Die

Despondent, Mrs. F. L. Woolard, 145 Pacific avenue, attempted to end her life at 7:30 o'clock this morning, using a 36-gauge shotgun, loaded with a shell carrying No. 8 shot. The shot, which came so very close to instantly killing the unfortunate woman, entered the left side of the body which it pierced less than an inch below the heart. It was directed at the heart, but deflected downward.

Dr. H. R. Boyer was called and ordered Mrs. Woollard taken to the Glendale Sanitarium hospital. He states that there is a bare chance that Mrs. Woollard will recover.

Mr. Woollard Hears Shot

Mr. Woollard was eating breakfast at the time of the shooting. When last he saw her, previous to the shooting, his wife was sleeping quietly.

On hearing the shot he ran into the next room where he found his wife on the floor of the closet.

Mrs. Woollard had risen, crossed to the closet and secured the shot gun. After putting a shell in the chamber she placed the muzzle to her body and fired. Her intention was plainly to end her life. Deep cuts on the inside of both arms made by a sharp instrument were found, indicating she had endeavored to cut the radio arteries. Failing, she then resorted to the shotgun.

Brooded Over Sister's Death

Mrs. Woollard became despondent three months ago when her sister, Mrs. S. W. Fenton, whose home was at 530 West Oak street, died. Relatives state that they were constantly together, first visiting at one home, then at the other. When Mrs. Fenton died, her sister seemed to lose interest in life. Last week Mr. Fenton heard her say that she thought she was losing her mind. Such a thing was so far from Mr. Fenton's mind that he gave the expression litle thought.

Mr. and Mrs. Woollard came to Glendale a litle more than two years ago, and since that time have been living at 145 Pacific avenue. They have a girl 15 years old and a boy of eight years. They formerly lived in Oklahoma. Up to a short time ago Mr. Woollard was an employee in the pressroom of the Glendale Press.

GIVES BLOOD TO SUCCOR SISTER

After having given three teaspoonfuls of her blood twice a week for the past ten weeks, Miss Mildred Ellison of Berkeley has the satisfaction of knowing that her sacrifice has not been in vain. Her sister, Miss Evelyn, who for weeks has been gradually dwindling away, is recovering. A year ago Miss Evelyn weighed 118 pounds, but the sickness gradually reduced this ot barely 54 pounds. The blood that was supplied by her sister kept her alive. At a recent consultation 15 doctors of the valley decided that the girl was suffering from "blood discrasia." Upon this decision of the physicians the treatment given the sick young lady was somewhat changed. The new course of treatment has worked wonders. Miss Evelyn has gained ten pounds and is doing nicely. During the trying ordeal Miss Mildred has gained four pounds in weight.

TUJUNGA JOINS IN BOOSTING LOCAL RETAIL SHOW

Monte Vista Day, to be observed at the Merchants' Exposition August 31, will bring hundreds of people here from Tujunga, Sunland, La Crescenta, La Canada and Montrose, as a result of arrangements completed this morning by representatives of the Moon Festival and the Merchants' Exposition, at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

In cooperating with the Moon Festival committee, officials of the Merchants' Exposition believe that much benefit will be derived by local merchants in that it will be an opportunity to solicit trade of the Monte Vista valley towns.

"I would estimate that well over 1000 persons from the towns up the valley will come to Glendale on Monte Vista Day," said Mr. Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, this morning. "It will make for closer intimacy between those towns and Glendale and our merchants will have an opportunity to interest the visitors in their goods."

Moon Festival Growing

Vest strides are being taken by the committee in charge of the Moon Festival. G. M. Ipsley, of Tujunga, a member of the program committee, stated this morning that Tom Mix is to stage a wild west show up in the "green Verdugo hills" that will be a thriller.

The aid of additional movie talent has been solicited and an opportunity will be given to successful bidders to dance with some of the feminine stars of filmdom. Another headliner at the festival will be the vaudeville acts, which will be transported from the Orpheum circuit to Tujunga.

During the progress of the Moon Festival from September 2 to 6, free parking and camping facilities will be offered. There is to be no charge for admission to the festival.

Boost Glendale Show

Glaring bill posters will be displayed from Sixth and Figueroa streets out along the car route and automobile roads leading to Glendale, with the announcement "Glendale Merchants' Exposition Now" emblazoned across their width. These posters will appear on the streets August 27.

Efforts will be made in this manner to bring out of town people to Glendale to the exposition. Practically all arrangements have now been completed for the opening day.

BEAUTY OF GRAND VIEW PARK WILL BE UNRIVALLED

Len Davis, superintendent of Grand View Memorial Park, declares that when the improvements planned are completed it will be one of the most beautiful in all California.

A complete water system has been laid for the irrigation of the lawns already in and to be extended from time to time. Ground space representing 80,000 feet has been seeded within the past ten days and the total area in lawn represents about fifty per cent of the park.

A beautiful litle chapel which will accommodate one hundred mourners is now under construction and will be completed within thirty days. It is of Spanish type with stucco exterior, and in connection there will be vaults for the reception of bodies awaiting shipment.

There will also be built a number of small, family vaults of Roman architecture which will be started as soon as workmen complete the chapel.

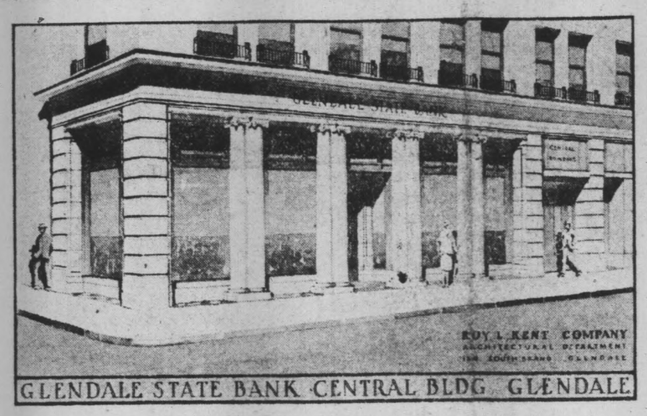
Mrs. A. B. Pouder, of Council Bluffs, Ia., has arrived in Glendale and is visiting indefinitely with her son, A. B. Pouder, and family, 334 West Colorado street. Mr. Pouder is the proprietor of the Enterprise Furniture company, 216 East Broadway.

New Broadway Home of Glendale State Bank



GLENDALE STATE BANK CENTRAL BLDG GLENDALE

Eight large granite columns will form the front of the home of the new Glendale State bank, now nearing completion on East Broadway, making the new building one of the handsomest and most distinctive structures on that thoroughfare.

Back of the granite columns, plate-glass will extend the entire front and side of the building, giving light into the depth of the offices. The lobby to the central entrance will be framed in granite, and the great double doors will be of bronze.

In the interior, the note of granite will be displaced by marble and mahogany, a combination of which will be carried out in the ten wickets leading to the offices and departments

A special feature of the new bank will be the ladies' room, which will be equipped both as a resting place and an office room, and will be open to those who wish to make appointments at the bank.

The escrow department will open off the main banking lobby. It will be in charge of an experienced escrow man.

The rear of the main lobby, and in front of the safe-deposit vault and door, will be a large glass partition which will separate the safe-deposit lobby and yet permit light to reach the safe-deposit vault.

A distinctive feature of this vault will be the heavy, solid, triple time-lock door, known as the Diebold vault door.

The safe deposit department will be finished in its appointments with two private booths for the service of customers using the vault as a depository.

The opening of the bank has been delayed by the non-arrival of equipment ordered by the contractor. A. R. Eastman, vice-president of the bank, said yesterday that the exact date of the opening cannot be announced for several days.

VERDUGO PUPILS ARE A PROBLEM

Transportation of pupils from the Verdugo and Grand View Districts to Glendale schools, and a discussion relative to an increase of salaries of the superintendent of schools, the office employees and the janitors of the various schools will come up for discussion before the Board of Education meeting tonight at the Intermediate School.

There are no schools in either the Verdugo or Grand View Districts. Last year pupils there attended the Burbank schools. The mater of an increase in salaries comes as a consequence of a recent schedule drawn up which gives teachers a provisional raise in salaries.

NATIONAL GUARDS PLAN CLUBHOUSE

The local company of National Guard will hold its weekly drill tonight at 7:30, assembling first at headquarters above the Glendale branch of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, 104 North Brand boulevard.

While the schedule of drill calls for close-order formations, it is probable that the company will begin preliminary rifle training either tonight or next week, in view of the fact that the guard is soon to go on the range for target practice.

With the arrival this morning of lockers for the company, efforts on the part of officers of the organzation to put the company on an efficient basis are seen to be matrializing. It will not be possible for each member of the guard to have a complete issue of equipment.

The lockers, which are of steel and contain a gun rack and two shelves, will be set up in the headquarters rooms. There are 150 lockers in all and each mna will have one assigned to him.

Plans to convert the company rooms into a club are now approaching reality. Three pool tables, which were ordered some tme ago, are due to arrive the latter part of this week. Other changes which will add to the attractiveness and comfort of the rooms are being projected.

THE HORNINGS ARE LEAVING GLENDALE

Roy Horning and family have been the objects of considerable attention since it became known they were leaving this week for Montana, where Mr. Horning is to carry on Y. M. C. A. work.

The Misses Evelyn and Elaine Horning were the honorees at a luncheon recently, given by Misses Margaret and Bernice Brown, at their home, 1909 Vassar street. The hand-painted place cards represented suit-cases, traveling bags, trunks, etc. Yellow and purple constituted the color scheme carried out in the pansies with which the board was centered, and other table appointments. An afternoon of music and dancing followed the luncheon.

JUSTICE DESPAIRS OF TRAFFIC HOGS

Judge Lowe has given up all hope of some of the people of Glendale and also of some of the visitors who come to this city ever obeying the traffic laws. He says he does not for a minute believe that the motorists are ignorant of laws against such practices as crossing the street between intersections, cuting corners, driving without proper lenses in the headlights, ond speeding. Most of the cases brought before him he believes are deliberate fractures of the law. So, he says, the only thing left for him to do is to "lay it on."

More alleged traffic offenders were arrested yesterday than during any 24 hour period for weeks. Some were taken in during the day time, while quite a few were "corralled" after dark. Defective or improperly cared for headlights was the causes for most of the arrests, which goes to show that people are not careful enough how they "light up."

The following motorists were taken in:—

Harold Nelson, Sunland, plain glass in lamps, one glass broken; H. W. Miller, 723 West 41st street, Los Angelest, plain glass in lamps; Allen Youngblood, Hollywood, plain glass in lamps; Clare Kester, 655 West Delano street, Van Nuys, plain glass in lamps; John Ghighia, San Fernando and Milford street, Glendale, plain glass in lamps and no operator's licenes; J. Ferrare, 3601 East Sixth street, Los Angeles, plain glass in lamps; Willis J. Maitland, 119 East Avenue 54, Los Angeles, plain glass in lamps, one headlight burning; W. N. Shears, 1609 Crafton avenue, Los Angeles, plain glass in lamps; R. Schuster, Lankershim, plain glass in lamps; A. J. Hull, 1439 Crestwood Way, Los Angeles, plain glass, painted; Earl Mayo, 401 Arden avenue, Glendale, no headlights, spotlight not adjusted; W. A. Barnes, 1338 East 39th street, Los Angeles, no headlight, spotlight no adjusted; H. M. Seeds, 2612 Loosenmore street, Los Angeles, spotlight not adjusted; Frank Givia, 119 Stiltinnieve, Van Nuys, no tail light, only one headlight burning, no operator's license; George Yada, Burbank, no tail light, spotlight not adjusted.

William Mohr of 328 Arden avenue, was running his car yesterday with his muffler open. He will pay the bill tomorrow morning at 10.

S. S. Bearn, 615 Myrtle street, Glendale, was skipping along at 34 miles an hour in the 20-mile zone on Central avenue last evening. He will answer for his sport in the morning.

Ira Young was arrested for cutting the corner at San Fernando road and Los Feliz avenue, while Joseph Reynolds was arrested yesterday on Broadway for backing across the street. C. P. Messebroad, Burbank, was arrested for crossing Broadway between Orange street and Central avenue.

VALLEY FAIR SHOW OF HORSES WILL BE IMPORTANT

At a general committee meeting held this week in Burbank, a talk was made by E. R. Elkins, general director of the San Fernando Valley Fair, to open September 13, in which he emphasized the point that this is a county fair and has been recognized as such by the county supervisors.

Mr. Elkins declared that the horse show will be the finest that has ever been held west of Denver. Saturday afternoon, September 17, when children will be admitted to the horse show free, there will be a prize drawing for a Shetland pony, harness and carriage.

No parking charges will be imposed, he said. A 50-cent ticket will admit to everything except the evening horse show, for which an extra charge will be made.

He urged the ladies to spread broadcast the information that daily lectures will be given in the woman's department by Henrietta Kapp, representing the household furnishings and home decoration department of Barker Brothers, and by "Prudence Penny," who conducts the culinary department of the Los Angeles Examiner.

BOYS CONFESS TO MANY BURGLARIES

The boys were arrested yesterday afternoon at the corner of Broadway and Brand by Officer Scales. These boys also confessed to committing two previous robberies. The youthful lawbreakers will appear before Judge Lowe at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The rear fender of Mrs. Harris' car was smashed and the rear of the car badly damaged. No one was hurt. UNEARTH BODY OF MISSING PRIEST; MURDERED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—The body of Father Patrick E. Heslin has been found. Murdered and buried in a lonely hillside crypt on Salada Beach the missing priest was taken from his grave in the sand early today by a posse headed by Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien and Constable S. A. Landin. He had been shot twice. One bullet went through his heart, another through his head, opening a gaping wound through the skull. By his side was the blessed sacrament which he had taken with him when called from his Colma parish house ten days ago to answer an ostensible errand of mercy.

William A. Hightower furnished the clue on which the body was found. Today he is being held for further questioning and for investigation.

Night Life Clue

According to Hightower, he gained his information from Dolly Mason, 24, a woman of the night life, who last Saturday related the ravings of a half intoxicated foreigner, who boasted that his revolver had taken human life.

Dolly, according to Hightower, asked where the body was buried and the man replied:

"I've a man watching him all the time—a man who sits and cooks flapjacks."

Hightower, who is familiar with the Salada Beach region through work on a railroad there some years ago, started on a lone search. He found, he said, a large advertising sign bearing the picture of a miner cooking flapjacks.

Hightower led a party to the burial spot without trouble. With the feeble light of flashlights and a lantern, digging was started. First a section of damp, broadcloth came to light. Then a hand and then the face of the murdered priest.

The difficulty which the searching party had in taking the body from its hiding place to the road across the wind-swept sand dunes, convinced the officers that unless Father Heslin was forced to go to his grave at the point of a revolver and was murdered there, more than one man must have taken part in the kidnapping. The edge of the cliff is 250 feet from the point on the San Pedro highway, where it dips across the roadbed of the abandoned ocean beach railroad.

Police Check Stories

The police are checking up the story told by Hightower. They sought to find Dolly Mason. Hightower told the police that Dolly Mason described the man to him as a Greek and that he had gone to her room last Friday night.

Murderer Hated Church

It was then she obtained the clue of the flapjack man, according to Hightower. He said that she also heard the man express hatred for the Catholic church.

Hightower told the police he was a native of Texas, a baker by trade, but that he had followed construction camps most of his life.

Constable S. A. Landini is convinced that the priest had been murdered for revenge.

Police were puzzled by the finding of a bloody bit of gunny sack near the body.

Several cartridges of .45 calibre were found by Hightower close by the grave.

Story of Kidnapping

The finding of the body today coincided with the story told by the housekeeper of the murdered priest. She said the mysterious stranger who called him from his home Tuesday night a week ago, asked him to go to the bedside of a dying friend on the Pedro valley road. It was along this road the body was found.

Father Heslin was 60 years old. He was pastor of the Turlock, Calif., parish until two weeks before his death, when he was transferred to Colma, a beach suburb.

Reward totalling $9,000 had been offered for finding the priest.

Priest Put Up Fight

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Deputy Coroner Laswell of San Mateo county shortly before 9 o'clock.

Examination there proved that the priest, in addition to having been shot twice had been cruelly beaten.

Autopsy surgeons found that he had sustained a fractured skull. This bore out the assertion of the author of the ransom note that the priest "had been beaten four times over the head."

Bruises were also in evidence on other parts of the body, indicating, according to the officers, that he had put up a terrific struggle.

'GOOD-BYE, GOPHER,' WE NOW KNOW HOW TO GET YOU!

"How to get rid of gophers?" queried Frank Marek, City Forester, repeating the question just propounded to him by a home-maker of Glendale who is finding her garden activities sadly hampered by the rodents. "The best way is the government's method of poisoning," he finally replied.

"Success depends on the right kind of bait, the right kind of poison and placing it in the right way. First, the hole must be opened up to find, if possible, the main run. Then the bait, which may consist of sweet potato, raisins or any fruit that gophers like, must be so placed in the hole that it will not be covered by dirt and fail to be discovered by the four-footed tenant. At the same time the hole must be covered to exclude the light. If left open, the gopher will dig and push the dirt ahead of him to close it, and is likely to push the bait, if left loose, onto the surface, where it might be found and eaten by some pet animal.

"The way I do is to open the hole with a shovel, put the bait onto the end of a stick, which I shove back a foot or two into the run. I then close the hole, leaving stick and all. The gopher is bound to find it, and you will get 95 percent of all you go after.

"As an expert I can go around a gopher's hole and tell pretty well in what direction he is working, because I know the fundamental laws that govern the gopher mind, but once in a while it doesn't work out, because, occasionally, there is an independent gopher who works another way.

"For poison I always advise inquirers to go to the office of the Horticultural Commission in the Hall of Records, Los Angeles. It can be had there in proper shape to use, already mixed, with necessary directions. If placed in the way I have indicated, there isn't one chance in ten thousand that the gopher will die outside and, perhaps, cause the death of some pet dog or cat. He will perish in his hole and that will be the end of him."

Creator of Wallingford Helped By His Wife

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Aug. 11. — It used to be an old saying that the husband and wife couldn't both be inordinately bright. This seemed to be especially true where literary talent was involved.

But Mrs. George Randolph Chester has proved that there is nothing to that notion. For the last 9 years Mrs. Lillian E. Chester has collaborated with her talented husband in all of his books and stories. It is the only case on record of an international author working in complete collaboration with his wife.

It will probably be of interest to thousands of readers to know that Mrs. Chester aided her husband in writing the famous Wallingford stories. It now develops that Mrs. Chester put many of the peculiar twists into the very original character of "Blackie Daw."

In one of her husband's stories there was a wealth of detail regarding the girl's dresses, and many readers probably remarked that "no mere man could write all these details about a pretty girl's clothes." And it now develops that it was Mrs. Chester who supplied the feminine touches.

When George Randolph Chester decided to picturize his stories several years ago and learn the technical part of the silent drama Mrs. Chester also decided to take up scenario writing and the making of movies in the studios. Like her husband she became a pupil in screen and studio technique, and they have several screen successes to their credit.

While American women are entering all fields of activity and enrolling in positions formerly held sacred to mere man, it has been left to Mrs. Chester to set up a new record for women in motion pictures.

In collaboration with Mr. Chester she recently wrote the story and scenario of the final episode of the Wallingford series.

Then she accompanied her husband to a California studio and with him personally directed the screening of the story. Mrs. Chester carefully guarded every detail, as if she were rearing a child instead of a celluloid classic.

After all the scenes were "shot" she accompanied her husband to a New York studio, and with him is now titling, editing and cutting their film.

"Mrs. Chester and I work together as one person," says her distinguished husband with enthusiasm. "We make an ideal combination, for we really collaborate, and she should have the credit for it."

MAKING AMERICANS IS NOVEL WORK OF YOUNG GIRL

(By International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 11.—"Making Americans" is the work of Miss Marguerite Zoff, only woman naturalization examiner in the United States, who has charge here of the Federal Bureau of Naturalization. Her appointment to the position was made following her graduation from Washington University in 1918.

With women in possession of the vote and with more women of all nationalties coming to America to take out first and second papers, the importance of Miss Zoff's duties is growing.

Through efforts of the St. Louis League of Women Voters the foreign-born women are awakening to their responsibilities and privileges as citizens. From St. Louis' melting pot of Russian, Polish, German and Greek women are making many applications for naturalization papers.

There is pending before Congress, Miss Zoff explains, a bill seeking to force foreign-born women coming to the United States to take out papers similar to those required for their husbands.

There are many unmarried foreign women seeking positions in this country, Miss Zoff explains, making the situation complex and more easily handled by women because they are better qualified to unravel the complexities.

Miss Zoff's work is much demanded in Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois, especially where naturalization problems of women are concerned. Women are rapidly advancing to the need of taking out papers to protect themselves as citizens, declares Miss Zoff.

"My work has its humorous side," says Miss Zoff. "Under the fourteenth amendment the right of citizenship descends to all children born here of foreign parents. There is a case pending now awaiting the decision of the father to take out his naturalization papers. Three children of a 'household divided' were born abroad, while three others were born in this country. The question is whether the three foreign-born youths will be forced to take out their papers upon attaining their maturity."

"Show Me" State Has Celebrated Centennial

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 11.—Yesterday was "the day" in "Old Missouri."

The "show me" state was celebrating the 100th anniversary of her admission into the Union, and in cities and towns programmes in honor of the Centennial were carried out.

It was 239 years ago when La Salle, the great French explorer, after slowly making his way up the Mississippi River, struck out across Missouri's soil seeking riches—the pot of gold at the end of the wanderer's rainbow.

More than a century elapsed before hardy pioneers came to establish trading posts from which hunters trekked into the wilderness to return laden with fur pelts.

In 1812 Missouri became a territory. In 1818 it applied for Statehood, but the troublesome days of the "Dred Scott Decision" and the Missouri Compromise of 1820" followed, and it was not until August 10, 1821, that Missouri became a State and a new star was set in the blue field of the American flag.

Another hundred years have passed, and today, in the land where a century ago only thousands toiled and labored and called their rough habitations "home," millions of contented Americans now dwell in comfort in communities famed broadcast through the land for their progressiveness.

In official commemoration of yesterday's anniversary a great centennial was held at Sedalia, in connection with the annual State Fair.

An historical pageant was one of the chief features of the centennial, in which hundreds took part, portraying before a great scenic panorama the events in Missouri history from the day the white men came.

Missouri paused yesterday to gather around its birthday cake of prosperity, bright with a hundred candles. Today it starts a new epoch, to "carry on" for greater prosperity and happiness perpetual.

$12,000 HOME IN VERDUGO CANYON

A home that promises to be among Glendale's finest is the residence that will be constructed by the Frank Meline Company of Los Angeles, for Amy L. Jamieson, at 921 Campbell road, in Verdugo canyon. This home will consist of ten rooms and will cost $12,000.

Not so very long ago the prospective owner of this new home purchased this beautiful canyon site, having been attracted particularly to that section. Since making this purchase she has been located temporarily on the property, during which time she went into all of the details of her new home with the architect, Clarence L. Jay. Many of the unique arrangements of the home were suggested by her personally.

The size of this new home will be 31x78 feet, and it will be constructed on the rear of the property, the intention being to transform the forward section of the land into a wonderful garden spot. The home will be of two stories and will have a spacious basement.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN ON TRIP

Because August is usually a hot month, making an afternoon gathering at the Congregational Church a discomfort, for some years the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary and Missionary Society of that church has taken the form of a picnic. It is being held today at Brookside Park, where the ladies went by truck and automobile at 2 o'clock. An afternoon of swimming will be followed by a big dinner at 6:30 when members will be joined by husbands, brothers and sons. Mrs. F. R. Frazee is chairman of the Social Committee, and will be assisted by Mrs. George Colson, president of the Women's Auxiliary and Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, president of the Missionary Society.

VACUUM CLEANERS SELL WELL HERE

E. A. Clark, of the up-to-the-minute electrical establishment at 316 East Broadway, believes that, from a business standpoint, Glendale cannot be equalled this side of the Rockies.

"Our business has trebled during the past three weeks," says Mr. Clark. "By the way we have been selling washing machines and vacuum cleaners, one would think we were running a hot-cake stand. The people here seem to be wild to get these modern electrical appliances in their homes. They grasp the valuable, work-saving features of our appliances with hardly a demonstration. The result is that we are placing them in all sections of Glendale. Let's see; we delivered four yesterday and three today and—well, why go on? Every day brings the same old story—our machines are kept busy delivering washers, sweepers, and the like."

The Clark Electrical company carries everything in the way of electrical household appliances. Among the washers sold by this firm are the Apex, Syracuse, Crystal, Woodrowasher and the Johnson, while practically every kind of sweeper on the market is kept on hand for immediate demonstration. This company employs five solicitors who are making a house-to-house canvass.

The home office of the Clark Electrical company is located at 713 South Broadway, Los Angeles, while branch stores are maintained in San Fernando, Alhambra, Anaheim, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Pasadena, San Bernardino and Glendale.

ROCK BOTTOM HAS MEAT DEPARTMENT

The meat department of the Rock Bottom store, 233-235 South Central avenue, will open for business Thursday, August 18. Gus Ebsen, who has charge of this department, has expended $6,000 in making his meat market as near perfect as possible. It has been equipped with marble counters and a refrigerating system as well as other utilities.

Mr. Ebsen, who is comparatively a newcomer here, demonstrates an unqualified confidence in Glendale, for, as well as becoming interested commercially here, he has seen fit to invest in a considerable amount of real estate.

His most recent acquisition includes several lots at Glendale avenue and Acacia street, where he will soon erect four double bungalows. The cost will be $24,000 exclusive of the cost of the land.

It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all, but why not place the period after lost?

GLENDALE FOLKS DEMAND VALUES

There is no city in Southern California whose residents can compare with the people of Glendale when it comes to buying, according to A. B. Pouder, proprietor of the Enterprise Furniture company, 216 East Broadway.

"The greatest surprise to us upon our arrival here, and ever since that time, has been the remarkable buying inclination of the people of Glendale. They are always on the lookout for the good and unusual. The very latest in styles is none too good for them. We are more than pleased with the way the people of Glendale are treating us, and in return, we are trying to give them true value in everything in the furniture line."

A large shipment of ivory-finish dressing tables, chiffoniers and an extensive variety of rugs, has just been received by the Enterprise store. Mr. Pouder states they are moving rapidly.

WEBB & CO. IS PREPARED

H. S. Webb & Co., 103 South Brand boulevard, have completed a line of closets in their men's furnishings department and are now prepared to sell men's suits. The line they are carrying is the Hart, Shaffner & Marx.

PATTERSON PARK LIGHTING SOON

Shipments of material for the proposed high-power line that is to extend to Patterson public park, are being received daily. These include wire, poles, insulators, oil switches, current breakers, etc. Purchasing Agent Webster stated this afternoon that the work on the new line will commence just as soon as all the material has been received, which will be in the very near future.

FEDERAL TAXES MAY BE LOWER NEXT FISCAL YEAR

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — In the first clear cut clash between the legislative and executive branches of the government under the Harding administration, congress has emerged with a decisive victory over the treasury department.

As a result federal taxes this next fiscal year are to be approximately lower for every man, woman and child in the United States under the provisions of the new tax revision program which the house ways and means committee began drafting today.

REDUCTION OF $600,000,000

There will be a reduction of $600,000,000 in the government's income. Whether the reduction in the government's out-go will be that large, remains to be seen. Doubt was expressed today that it could be effected. The treasury experts who favored a pay-as-you-go policy for governmental financing, do not believe it can be done. They foresee the necessity for a lot of deficiency appropriations towards the close of the next fiscal year.

MELLON DEFEATED

Regardless, however, of whether the income equals the outgo, there will be reduced federal taxes for this year, at least. Republican leaders of the house and senate flatly informed President Harding and Secretary Mellon that a reduction of taxes this year is necessary to insure the return of a house in 1922. Secretary Mellon, never having stood for elective office, could not appreciate this. He viewed the whole proposition from a cold business standpoint — so much was needed and so much had been raised.

England Wants Two Million More Hubbys

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Must two million women remain forever single?

In England today there is that number of "superfluous" women, the dearth of men occasioned, of course, by the great war.

What is the best answer to England's woman problem then?

Lord Northcliffe, famous British publisher, brings up the subject when a girl writer visits him in search of an idea for a syndicate story.

"Tell your chief to find out what's to be done with two million superfluous women we now have in England," he replies without an instant's hesitation.

"We have that many more women than men," he continued. "That should interest everybody. I'd like to have such a story myself."

Census statistics fro 1920 show there are now 107 men for every 100 women in the United States.

Latest available figures on population announce a surplus of 2,692,288 males over females and a surplus of males, over twenty-one, to exceed by 2,443,397 the number of females over the same age.

BIG ASSETS, SAYS MRS. GABRIEL

"Two million women in any country are an asset, not a liability," asserts Mrs. Gabriel.

"Women are the equals of men in any capacity, politically, economically and constructively—I refer to the reorganization of any country after a war.

"The trouble with the majority of men is that they look upon women, not as human beings, but as inferior bits of creation by means of which they may exploit themselves."

"I believe there is a true mate for every one of us, and women nowadays want him or don't want to get married at all."

MRS RAYMOND BROWN'S OPINION

Mrs. Raymond Brown, prominent suffragette and managing director of the Woman Citizen, a suffrage organ, does not think the "eternal maternal" should be wasted.

"Two million extra women!" Mrs. Brown exclaimed. "England is rich indeed.

"Women, married or not, have the mother instinct.

"If this maternal quality is not expended on her own children, woman may help her country all the more.

"Economically, woman can earn her own living. She always has, in some way or other.

"The first aspect of the question at present is the economic phase of it. After all, if women are provided means of support, the problem is not so dangerous.

"The human side is not pre-eminent at present, it seems to me.

"If women are well provided for economically, men could be easily induced to go to England and take them for wives.

But what Miss Rose Scheidermann, head of the Women's Trade Union League, wants to know is:

"Why does England differentiate women from men? Why ask what to do with two million women any more than what to do with two million extra men? Would a country worry about its extra men? No! Then why worry about the women? Let the thing adjust itself."

DOCTORS DIAGNOSE LAW CASES BEST, SAYS JURIST

(By International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 11.—What professional man makes the best jurist?

"A lawyer," might be expected to be the usual response.

But that isn't the way George Rossman answers that question. Here's his reply:

"A doctor."

No, Rossman isn't a doctor; he's municipal judge of Portland, and before he went on the bench he was a lawyer.

But his experience as a jurist has convinced him that a knowledge of medicine is more important in dispensing justice than is an acquaintance with Blackstone.

Four-fifths of the law breakers who appear in police court are deficient, mentally or physically, according to Rossman, and should be treated by physicians instead of being thrown in jail.

"The people who fall into the hands of the law," he said, "are abnormal people. They cannot live as their fellows. They steal. They use dope. They are quarrelsome. They drink, fight with their neighbors or allow their vile passions to rule them.

"These people are subjects for physicians rather than judges. Penalizing these unfortunates by locking them in jail does little good. It has a deterrent effect on the rest of society. But it accomplishes no reform in the prisoner.

"Take the woman dope fiend who came into my court. An examination showed she was suffering with a cancer and took the dope to deaden the pain. A term in jail would not cure her cancer. Medical science might do something for her, but statutes and ordinance would not.

"I do not believe in the present slip-shod method of administering justice. A judge should not be required to spend all of his time listening to rules of evidence, to precedence and recent decisions.

"If I had my way, I'd never send a man to jail until I had made a thorough examination of his case. I'd insist on a mental and physical examination of the prisoner. I would like to be a physician myself in order that I could discover the reason why the prisoner could not live like his fellow man.

"I believe the time is coming when the physician, and not the judge and jury, will deal with the law-breaker."

FATAL MINIATURE IN MURDER CASE IS NOW FOR SALE

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A miniature of George Washington, painted on a bit of ivory, the cause of a man's murder and a lonely woman's insanity, —is for sale.

The painting, which was Exhibit "A" in the murder trial of Mrs. Vera Trepagnier, later sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary for from one year to life for the murder of Paul F. Volland, wealthy art publisher, here in 1919, is to be sold by court order. It must bring $5,000, the order stipulates, but it will easily do that, according to art critics.

When Mrs. Trepagnier, a sweet-faced old lady, who had about her an air of dignity befitting even an impoverished gentlewoman of the Southland, took the stand during the trial she made the following statement:

"I had an heirloom, all that was left of the family fortune. It was a miniature of General George Washington. I asked Mr. Volland to sell it for me. He kept it. I went into his office time after time to get it back. When the last of my money gave out I went again. I had a revolver with me. Just to scare him, you know. I—I don't understand how it was discharged."

"My only regret is about the picture," was her sole remark when the sentence was read to her. Later she was taken to the asylum at Dunning, Ill. The loss of her heirloom had affected her mind. To everyone who would listen she talked about the George Washington miniature.

And now Exhibit "A"—the Washington miniature which has wrought so much sadness—is going to be sold. Art connoisseurs and art institutes are seeking to buy it.

"It's a beautiful thing," said Michael F. Looby, a Chicago attorney, who has been commissioned to dispose of Vera Trepagnier's "estate," which is the bit of art. "It was painted by John Trumbull, who died in 1843. He was a soldier as well as a great portrait painter. This was his painting on a bit of ivory of his idol—General Washington. Trumbull sent the miniature as a wedding gift to a Virginia bride. When the family moved westward the miniature was carried along. It changed hands again and again and finally vanishing. Mrs. Trepagnier's folks must have unearthed it somewhere."

It will easily bring $5,000, but the money will not do Vera Trepagnier much good.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Luster at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

"THE IRON RIDER" AT PALACE GRAND

On several occasions in American history good citizens have had to resort to unusual means to restore order in their community and put justice back on its throne. On such occasions the leaders of the decent element organized themselves into a secret band, garbed themselves in strange costumes and proceeded to mete out justice with a strong hand.

One of the best remembered instances of this kind is the famous Vigilantes clan, which came into being in California just after the gold rush began, in order to put a stop to lawlessness and the reign of terror in the community.

A thrilling photodrama produced by William Fox, starring William Russell, has been based on conditions similar to those existing when the Vigilantes were organized. This picture, "The Iron Rider," from a remarkable story by Frank L. Packard and directed by Scott Dunlap, will be shown at the Palace Grand Theater today.

Russell is seen as a young man whose father years before had organized the Iron Riders to put down rowdyism. When the town reverted to its former evil ways, the son took the oath of an Iron Rider, swearing to uphold its honorable name; but through circumstances beyond his control he apparently disgraced his father and the Iron Rider band. How he restored his good name and won the girl of his heart—played by charming Viola Vale—is told in a story that is said to be an unbroken series of intensely dramatic situations.

And then there is a comedy to round out today's program. "Fatty" Arbuckle, Buster Keaton and Al St. John all combine to put the kick in "Moonshine," which is a rollicking riot of fun that is reputed to make the most sober of persons laugh.

DIEDERICH RETURNS

PATHE SPECIAL AT GLENDALE THEATER

"Dice of Destiny"—Pathe Special!

H. B. Warner and Lillian Rich are co-stars in the Pathe special, "Dice of Destiny," showing again today at the Glendale Theatre. The picture was filmed at the Jesse D. Hampton studios.

"Dice of Destiny" combines a variety of elements that have gone far toward making it a more popular photoplay than its predecessor, "Alias Jimmy Valentine." There is an irresistable human touch, dramatic suspense, romance and mirth in this trip-hammer drama whose blows hit hard on the heart.

The story is one of a nimble fingered jewel thief, who, finding the game not worth the candle, goes straight, plays fair, and wins the sympathy of the heroine.

Out at the studio where "Dice of Destiny" was being produced, H. B. Warner was recently asked to give his opinion in regard to motion picture stars and as to whether he thought their place would continue in the film world.

"All right," he smiled. "Well, then, you know, and so does the next man, that the public demands stars, they delight in according recognition to individual worth. Should Bill Green do some particularly striking work in an obscure role then public favor will assuredly push him upward. Should he display star qualities, a star he will become. There is an erroneous belief that producers "make" stars, but no greater fallacy exists. The public in their own attainments make them, and producers merely gauge the most propitious moment to launch a climbing actor with star credit.

"It is common knowledge that a great many good stories are cut and distorted to fit the star. It is also obvious to discriminating picture fans that some stars offer very little with their pictures except their personalities and prestige. Frequently the story and direction are practically nil, which is as it should not be. What I do believe, is, that the public has awakened to keener judgment and stars will undoubtedly be forced to produce a higher grade of work, but it is a mistake to predict their extirpation."

RUIE DOWNING MAKES CHANGE

Ruie Downing is free from the Western Union office at last, after vainly trying for two weeks to get his release so he could devote all his time to the Glendale Plant and Floral company's business, which he and his brother-in-law recently acquired. J. P. King, 215 East Lomita avenue, is in temporary charge and it is the hope of the business men of Glendale that he may be confirmed as the regular incumbent of the office.

No Danger

"I hope you are not afraid of microbes," apologized the paying-teller as he cashed the school teacher's check with soiled currency.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY—Ford says that "the world is on wheels." And a good many of the wheels just now seem to be in the world's collective head.

MEET THE FUTURE UNAFRAID

With a growing fear of disaster, you do not know what, but you seem to feel that something disagreeable is imminent, you grow more and more nervous.

You dread the outcome of the dark shadow which eludes, but follows.

Do you know that some adverse circumstance might be the best thing in the world for your own good?

Perhaps so far you have been able to slide along and meet your bills.

You have not accumulated much, but a little more than you have spent.

You have been quite contented—and you have not exercised your brain much because you have been so comfortable.

If you had met with such conditions and experiences that you would have been obliged to get right down to some solid thinking and planning to pay your bills it might have done you some good.

You have never had to think hard to get out of a crisis, and so you have never used your gray matter to capacity.

If the depression and fear which haunts you should be instrumental in getting your brain into working order—why, let the fearsome thing come.

It takes a hard prod to wake up some persons.

A LIGHTOMETER

A California inventor has devised a light which he believes will put a stop to automobile speeding. The light is attached to the speedometer and shows white when the driver is not going faster than the law allows. If the light shows green it means that the driver is stepping on the gas, and if it shows red—well, save the women and children. The inventor has taken the precaution to remove any temptation which the driver might have to "jimmy" the light. "It cannot be controlled from the driver's seat," says the inventor.

But it is doubtful if many motorists will be killed in the rush to buy these new lightometers. The careful driver can easily convince himself that such an accessory is wholly unnecessary, so far as he is concerned, and the speed maniac is not likely to advertise the fact. The inventor's idea is original and his invention must be a pretty little thing, but it would certainly take a constitutional amendment to get motorists to put it on their cars. That, however, is not beyond the pale of possibility, as in some states there are laws which say what kind of a headlight a driver must have on his car. A similar law could make it imperative that drivers have lightometers.

Because it has been intimated that letter postage may go to three cents, some folks are laying in a good supply of two-cent stamps.

The only thing the Fordney tariff lacks is a heavy export duty on refrigerators and electric fans shipped to Alaska.

Bootleggers are no longer in fear of the Volstead law? Why not drag out the Sherman anti-trust law?

GRAVE AND GAY

Safe Guess

"Now, tell me the truth," said the fussy old lady to the corner mendicant, "are you really blind?" "Yes, ma'am," said the beggar. "What is this I'm about to give you?" "A nickel, ma'am." "Ha! If you are blind, how do you know it's a nickel?" "Because, ma'am, I never get more than a nickel out of people like you."

Attention, Bridegrooms!

"Just what is the difference between a henpecked husband and the other kind of husband?" asked the Bachelor.

"Well," explained the Benedick, "the henpecked husband gives in to his wife right away, but the other kind of husband doesn't give in until the next day."

Equally Rich

"So this is Hollywood?"

"Yes."

"And I suppose all these handsome residences and grounds belong to motion picture stars?"

"All but that imposing mansion on the corner there. It belongs to a celebrated divorce lawyer."

The Stamp of Learning

"Pa, what's a postgraduate?"

"A fellow who graduates from one of those correspondence schools, I suppose."

Coming to a river with which he was unfamiliar, a traveler asked a youngster if it was deep. "No," replied the boy, and the rider started to cross, but soon found that he and his horse had to swim for their lives. When he reached the other side he turned and shouted, "I thought you said it wasn't deep?" "It isn't," was the reply; "it only takes grandfather's ducks up to their middles."

Militant Journalism

"How many papers in this town?" asked the stranger in Chiggersville.

"One."

"But I understand there were two—the Clarion and the Times."

"Sir, I am the editor of the Clarion. I never have recognized and never will recognize the existence of a competitor."

The pile of flints still to be broken was a very large one, thought the stone-breaker as he gazed at it disconsolately between his bites at a large sandwich of bread and cheese. A minister came along and gave him a cheery "Good-morning," remarking afterwards that he had a deal of work to get through yet. "Aye," said the eater, "them stones are like the Ten Commandments," "Why so?" inquired the genial parson. "You can go on breaking 'em," came the reply, "but you can't never get rid of 'em."

The Nice Shades of Our Speech

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, Chinese Labor Commissioner to the United States, while speaking recently to the Kiwanis Club of Springfield, Mass., gave an interesting example of "dictionary English." A Chinese woman who had learned her English in the schools had been very much annoyed by the constantly increasing charges made by a plumber. When at length a particularly exorbitant bill was presented she said: "How is this, sir? You are dearer to me now than when we were first engaged."

Certainly "Not"

Tenderfoot—"Why do you have knots on the ocean instead of miles?"

First-Class Scout—"Well, you see, they couldn't have the ocean tide if there were no knots."

Mixed Metaphors or Drinks

William Lyon Phelps of the English chair at Yale has added a new mixed metaphor to his large and amusing collection. This addition is from one of the novels of W. L. George: "The cloud that tried to stab their happiness was only a false rumor whose bitter taste could not splinter the radiance nor dim the effervescence of their joy."

Willing to Tackle the Worst

The class had been studying about the house fly, says Good Health, and the teacher had made much of the danger with which the germ-carrying habits of the insect threaten the public health. The lesson sank deep into the mind of little George, who later was asked to write a composition on the subject.

"The fly is a insec," he wrote laboriously; "he has six legs, he is more dangerous than a lion, but I had rather a fly would bite me than a lion."

Luck

"Sure, it's Mike that's the lucky man."

"How's that?"

"Why, he just took out an insurance policy for $10,000 and the very next day he fell off the bridge and got drowned in the river."

Handy Methods of Preparing Eggs

For lifting eggs there is a new device which improves on the old-fashioned lifter by a circular depression like a ring in the center. The depression is intended to prevent the lifter from sliding. It is inserted under the egg as is an ordinary lifter, but as the egg settles into the center it is prevented from sliding out by the depression all around it. This settling is a help in keeping the yolks intact. Another utensil useful in lifting or turning eggs or in turning omelets, differs entirely from the old-fashioned lifter. It consists of a flat, egg-shaped, nickel-plated piece of metal attached at right angles to a metal handle which is again attached at right angles to a rubberoid finished handle. The advantage is great. The old-fashioned lifter or turner slides under the egg on a slant; this tool lies perfectly flat against the bottom of the cooking vessel. The price of this handy tool is also attractive. It costs 10 cents.

Egg slicers are another imported novelty. These are designed primarily for salads and sandwiches, but they can be used to make any kind of hard-boiled egg combination dish attractive. The salad slicer cuts the eggs in segments; that designed for sandwiches cuts neat, thin slices, impossible to achieve with a knife.

And now, just a word for the old-fashioned egg timer. These are ever coming out in new forms and may be obtained in varying styles and at any price. They are arranged to accommodate both the three minutes' boiled egg and the more modern, infinitely preferable six minutes' "coddled" egg. To have one in your kitchen will save many an egg from passing into the hard-boiled class.

One of the newest egg beaters is made on the principal of the regular beater, with a wheel and handle, with a new theory in the revolving paddles. On the theory that it is the air which enters the egg which creates lightness, the parts of the dashers or paddles are made with a swelled serrated edge on one side and a contracted edge on the other. This beater is guaranteed by the maker to make more frosting than any other beater. Another new egg beater consists of a cylinder of metal in which is inserted a dasher consisting of a flat, rounded disk, perforated with many small holes. Moving the dasher up and down forces the eggs through the holes and makes them light. Either of these beaters works equally well in whipping cream.

The French Way of Poaching Eggs

A French poached egg is quite a different thing from the poached egg of our American kitchens, as I discovered in a little restaurant in Fontainbleu, where the chef prepared his dishes in full sight of his patrons. His method seemed a rather troublesome one, but the results were fine and the process most interesting to watch. But one egg at a time was cooked, and when it was finished it resembled a soft-boiled egg from which all the shell had been removed, leaving the egg whole but not hard.

To accomplish this, the water was brought to the boiling point, then a teaspoon of salt and a tablespoon of tarragon vinegar were added. When the water began to boil madly, an egg was broken into the most tempestuous spot, where the agitation produced the smooth oval shape, while the acid in the water hardened the albumen just enough to preserve the egg whole. Fine sauces of all sorts were served with these poached eggs.

A Swiss chef in Nice is responsible for "Cold eggs, Andalouse style," a simple but excellent dish, which has for its foundation six eggs poached in the manner of my friend's in Fontainebleau. A cup of stiff mayonnaise was the next essential, and this Francois tinted a salmon pink with tomato paste. Next he dissolved a tablespoon of granulated gelatin in half a cup of warm water and, as it cooled, it was beaten into the pink mayonnaise and mixed very thoroughly with it. The beating and mixing continued until the mayonnaise began to stiffen slightly; then Francois declared it was just right and set about to quickly coat each egg carefully with it, until the entire surface was covered. Slices of stuffed olives, capers cut in halves, and lengthwise segments of tiny cucumber pickles were used to garnish the eggs as the mayonnaise in them hardened, and a slice was cut from each to make it stand upright.

When the eggs were all finished they were placed on a bed of crisp, cold cress and served icy cold, with an accompaniment of mayonnaise. As the eggs are cut and the combination of golden yolk, pink covering and whites with the various tints of the garnishes are disclosed, the dish makes a very unusual and beautiful appearance.

POPULAR SCIENCE

Use of one pipe within another is the novel German method of making concrete available for high-pressure water mains. The space between the two pipes is filled with water under a pressure half as great as that inside.

While continual effort is being made to introduce promising new plants into the United States, the various branches of the Department Agriculture are striving to avoid making additions to the imported insects and plant diseases that are already costing millions of dollars yearly. Foreign countries have listed several thousands insects of troublesome kind, with many plant diseases, that are not yet included among these immigrants. Besides special quarantines and plant inspections, the further precaution is being taken of restricting the number of the plants introduced and growing for a considerable time in greenhouses or under conditions of isolation, to make sure that all pests have been removed. After it is made certain that the plants are thoroughly freed from insects and diseases they are propogated more extensively, and are distributed in the usual way to growers for experiment.

A scientific reason for the value of cultivation of silt in agriculture has been suggested by an interesting capillary phenomenon reported in Germany. A block of plaster of Paris or other porous material was moistened with salt solution, and on drying it was found that evaporation withdrew the salt, depositing it at the surface. Hoeing or stirring the soil facilitates evaporation by exposing a greater total surface. Jerome Alexander, in Science, concludes that the rising of the sub-surface water brings to the roots soluble substances serving as plant food, and the capillary rise of water also explains the curious tendancy to furnish moisture to the growing crop.

Since total prohibition went into effect in Finland, sixty cases of impaired vision—half of them total blindness—have resulted from brandy substitutes. Calling attention to this new trouble, Dr. Rostedt contends that the poisoning is not due to the pure wood methyl alcohol, which an experimenter has taken in daily doses for nine months without serious injury, but to the fusel oil and other toxic substances contained in the crude wood spirit. The eye trouble developed about the third day.

That yellow fever has two different causes instead of one is the theory of Dr. G. Sampietro, whose exepriments have led him to regard the germ discovered by Noguchi as insufficient. It is not easy to assign all results to mosquito-carriers. He believes that one agent is bacterial, producing the typical symptoms of disease, but that some other agent — such as a filterable virus—may give varying effects. The character of the contagion and the diffusion of the infection seem to suggest a filterable virus. The feverish weakness in animals and the first stage of the disease in man are attributed to the virus and the bacillus is assumed to be the cause of the disturbances of the bodily organs and other symtoms. It is thought the virus may give rise to light forms of yellow fever, one of which attenuated forms may be dengue.

Wireless signals may be received by at least three senses — hearing, sight and taste. To learn the efficiency of taste, A. N. Goldsmith and E. T. Dickey have fitted electrodes to the tongue, and have made tests with low potential direct current and 60 cycle alternating current to determine the amount of energy and potential necessary. Ordinary signals from an antenna were received. This possibility of receiving by taste was shown, but the signals were less distinct and satisfactory than when taken by hearing.

Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross is planning an intensive campaign for used clothes for shipment to needy persons in Central and Eastern Europe. This phase of the foreign production program is being conducted in cooperation with the American Friends Service Committee.

Nation-wide appeal for contributions of used clothing is being made through The Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies Home Journal, and the Country Gentleman, in which prospective donors are instructed to get in touch with the nearest Red Cross representative or Chapter.

The call is for all kinds of warm and serviceable clothing in good condition, or for materials out of which to make garments. The local Chapter will receive contributions during August, and every interested citizen in Glendale is urged to remember that some garment he can do without may be just THE garment that will save the life of some suffering child. Garments for all ages are badly needed. They should be clean and in good repair.

Distribution is made in Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, Hungary, Poland, the Balkan and Baltic States, by the American Red Cross, through its Child Welfare Units, and other distribution machinery, and in Poland, Austria, Germany and Russia, by the American Friends Service Committee. Working in close cooperation in the countries in which both organizations are active, their representatives are careful to avoid duplication of effort.

Clothing may be left at the fire stations on East Broadway and Los Feliz road, and also at 347 North Brand Boulevard.

MRS. H. E. BARTLETT,
Chairman.

M'LAREN PARTY IS GLAD TO RETURN

Detective Malcolm McLaren, of this city, who has been connected with so many big cases that have engaged the attention of the district attorney's office, and who has crossed the continent many times, professionally, has just returned from a "play" trip. He and Mrs. McLaren, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flack, have been spending six weeks visiting old friends and old scenes. Iowa and Illinois are the states the McLarens know the best, and, besides a colony of relatives in Chicago, they have them scattered all over the great corn state, at Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Ames and Anamosa, the town last named being Mrs. McLaren's birthplace. She declares she is entirely weaned from it, however, and that California in general and Glendale in particular are far more like home to her.

The Flacks visited in Detroit, which is the old home of Mr. Flack.

HISTORY OF THE BOY SCOUTS

How Movement Began

By General Sir R. Baden-Powell

(I have been asked to set down the original genesis of the movement, so I hope the recurrent ego in the following paragraphs will be forgiven.—R. B.-P.)

In 1893-4, when serving with my regiment, the 13th Hussars, I realized that the ordinary peace training of soldiers for service in the field was not sufficiently practical, and I therefore carried out classes of training in my squadron for the men individually in scouting and campaigning. In 1897-8, having been transferred to command the 5th Dragoon Guards, I carried on similar training, but on improved lines, with a view to developing character—i.e., manliness, self-reliance, and reliability—as well as field-efficiency, since these were largely lacking in lads coming to the Army from the ordinary Board school. My lectures and practices were collated and published in a small book, "Aids to Scouting."

During the South American War, 1899-1900, Major Lord Edward Cecil, my Chief Staff Officer, organized the boys of Mafeking as a corps for general utility on scout lines rather than those of cadets, and the experiment was an entire success. The experience taught one that if their training were made to appeal to them, boys would learn readily, and also that boys were capable of taking responsibility to a far greater degree than was generally believed, if only they were trusted. The troop was made a small unit, in order that the commander should be able to deal with each individual on personal knowledge of him; the system of patrols was instituted—six boys under a leader. In carrying out the organization of the South African Constabulary, 1901-3, I employed the same principles on an extended scale.

Responsibility was thus given to the junior non-commissioned officers, and emulation between the patrols produced a good spirit and a higher standard of efficiency all round. The human side was appealed to, and the men were trusted on their honor to a very large degree in carrying out their duties. Their uniform for field work was the cowboy hat, shirt, green tie, and shorts. Badges were awarded for proficiency in different lines of work. In 1907 I held a trial camp for scout training for boys at Brownsea Island, at which I had boys of every class to experiment upon, and its results exceeded my expectations and prompted me to go on with the idea. The training was based on the lines which I had employed with soldiers and the constabulary, with some adaptation to make it suitable for boys, following the principles adopted by Zulus and other African tribes, which reflected some of the ideas of Epictetus and the methods of the Spartans and of the ancient British and Irish for training their boys. I also looked into the Bushido of the Japanese, as well as the more modern method of John Pounds, for dealing with boys, and Jahn for their physical culture, as well as those of today put in practice by Sir William Smith, Seton-Thompson, Dan Beard, and others.

What Good Would It Do?

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat, Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

P.-T. ASSOCIATION IS INVITED TO MEET IN GLENDALE

District Organization To Hold Its Conference Early in October

From the viewpoint of news, the most important business transacted by the members of the Glendale Parent-Teacher association at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. John Robert White, was the decision to invite the district association to hold its October conference in Glendale. The vote was subject, however, to luncheon arrangements and the securing of a meeting place, which were delegated to Mrs. Pierson Hanning, as a committee of one, with instructions to report to the president within the coming week. As the conference would bring to the city several hundred representative women from all parts of the district, its coming would be quite an important event.

Federation officers present were: Mrs. John Robert White, president; Mrs. P. O. Lucas, vice-president; Mrs. H. V. Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Percy Priaulx, treasurer; Mrs. H. V. Henry, auditor; Mrs. A. H. Brown, parliamentarian. Four P. T.-A. associations were represented by their presidents, viz., Pacific avenue, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg; Cerritos avenue, Mrs. Edward Adams; Acacia avenue, Mrs. W. B. Alexander; Intermediate, Mrs. W. A. Kulp. Others present were Mrs. A. T. Wintersgill, Mrs. Townsend Clark, Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, Mrs. Lily Aicholz, Mrs. Bert Cline, Mrs. H. A. McPherson, Miss Eva Daniels, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. E. L Young and Miss Margaret Sharpe.

The treasurer was called upon for a report, and made the cheering announcement of a bank balance of $221.83.

Committee chairmen were then announced by the president, and approved, as follows: Mrs. Pierson Hanning, membership; Mrs. A T Wintersgill, home economics; Mrs. Townsend Clark, child hygiene; Mrs. Lily Aicholz, visiting; Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, legislation; Mrs. Bert Cline, magazines and emblems; Mrs. H. A. McPherson, recreation; Miss Eva Daniels, scholarship; Mrs. E B. Moore, education; Mrs. W. Crawford, patriotism; Mrs. E. B. Young, publicity; Mrs. M. A. Horner, philanthropy; Mrs. W. A. Campbell, courtesy; Mrs. W. H. Dotson, juvenile court.

Before these committee appointments were announced, Mrs. White explained changes in the by-laws which will provide for the addition of the two new departments—child hygiene and scholarship. The special duty of the committee for the last named will be to aid needy students.

Mrs. H. V. Henry then described a monthly leaflet bulletin containing general P. T.-A. news, which the district proposes to issue and to furnish to members or associations at 15 cents a year. The federation voted to endorse the proposition, but reached no definite conclusion relative to financing subscriptions.

Association presidents were then called upon. Mrs. Alexander responded for Acacia, Mrs. Adams for Cerritos, Mrs. Kulp for Intermediate and Mrs. Rosenberg for Pacific. Mrs. Kulp begged other presidents not to keep their members so busy that they would have no time for Intermediate, where she felt their services were greatly needed.

A membership drive was the subject of quite an animated discussion, in which all agreed one could not be successfully conducted without the aid of children. Mrs. Pierson Hanning, membership chairman, said that the goal for the coming year would be 2800.

Mrs. Greenwalt, as chairman of legislation, said her preferred course would study the county organization, and the relationship between the board of supervisors and the schools, also the sources from which the schools derive their money.

Mrs. H. A. McPherson, responding as chairman of recreation, said she hoped to have a chance to push along the swimming pool, and Mrs. White proposed to add to her duties the censoring of picture shows.

A letter from Mrs. R. T. Burr thanking the federation for flowers sent during the illness from which she is slowly recovering, was read, and was received with warm interest.

Before any business was taken up, Rev. R. W. Mottern addressed the federation, asking for the appointment of a committee to cooperate with him in promoting work for Near East Relief in Glendale. The request was received with sympathy, but no immediate action was taken.

Following the adjournment of the session, delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess.

PLANS OF TUESDAY CLUB MUSIC SECTION

Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, Curator, Developing an Interesting Program for Year

American music will be much in the foreground in the programs of the music section or the Tuesday Afternoon club, if the plans of the curator, Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, are carried out. She also hopes to make the section the patron of music students and give them opportunities to perform. It should be, she declares, a stage on which can be heard the home talent in the club, in which members are frequently more interested than in visiting artists. She says we do not realize the wealth of ability along artistic lines represented by the membership, and it should be the aim of the section to bring that talent into recognition.

There will be considerable ensemble work, and the study of the music of the different nations will be continued but along somewhat different lines. For example, there will perhaps be a waltz day, when the characteristic compositions will be played and compared. Another day will perhaps be devoted to marches, the stately funeral march and the joyous wedding march affording scope for a program of interesting contrasts.

WOMEN PICNIC AT ECHO PARK

The Women's Missionary Society of Central Christian Church, held its regular monthly business meeting at Echo Park yesterday afternoon and served a picnic supper at 6:30, to which the men were invited. About 60 in all were present. After supper the social meeting of the society and the regular weekly prayer meeting were held. After a brief devotional service led by Miss Edith Learned Fred B. Mattice read an instructive paper on the missionary trend of the old testament writings. Miss Lulu Ethel Carton gave an address in which she described the life of the missionaries and told intimate details that are not found in books on thts subject. Mrs. T. C. Criel read an amusing poem descriptive of the meeting, which is reproduced below. Rev. Cole gave a brief talk, telling of future plans for the church, and then dismissed the company with prayer.

Mrs. Criel's poem follows:

To the missionary women, and our honored guests, the men,
We welcome you this evening to this lovely little glen.
When we see the sparkling water and the flowers and grass so fair,
'Tis but another proof to us that God is everywhere.
He has guided us and blessed us and led us on our way—
And we thank our Heavenly Father that He's led us here today!
So let us feast together, our bodies and our minds,
We offer you this afternoon your choice of either kind.
We've bread and salad, cakes and things that surely are the best,
And many lives among us that have stood the acid test.
The names of all our members are such a varied lot—
The following list is not complete—well, I should say it's not.
We go in strong for color—having Black and Brown—no red
And not a single blue or pink, but we have Green instead.
We have Tucker—but no ruffler and Stone—not any moss,
We have Bacon—but no beefsteak, no syrup and no sauce.
We sit among the Learned, while the Hedges 'round us grow;
We have a Ray of sunshine, and the Cox around us crow.
We have notables and missionaries from far across the sea,
And we have some common people, just like you and me.
We have merchants, stenos, and dabblers in the ink,
School teachers, busy housewives who don't have time to think.
And I'll tell you what we do have that's a joy to every soul:
Our wide-awake pastor, and his helpmate, Mrs. Cole.
He comforts us in trouble, and he likes to share our joy;
He instructs us from the pulpit, but at heart he's but a boy.
He's a friend to everyone—the Gentiles and the Jew,
His every hair is precious—for he has but twenty-two.
So now let us eat and be merry, for we're all out on a lark,
And long may sweet memories linger,
Of our picnics in Echo Lake park.

HOUSE ON WHEELS ARRIVES IN CITY

The days of the prairie schooner may be gone forever, but it never will be missed because it has been so completely distanced by its motor substitute. Glendale had a chance today to see a fine example in the "house on wheels" with which C. E. Hessenflow of Oklahoma equipped his Ford car for a trip to Glendale. He and his wife and family of four children have crossed the plains in a leisurely way, taking in all the sights enroute. These included the ruins of the cliff dwellers, which are outside the beaten track of travel. They are now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Humbert, 1729 Gardena avenue, and are looking around Southern California with a view to locating here.

TURIN BANK FAILS

MILAN, Aug. 11.—The Kuster Bank at Turin failed today with liabilities of 48,000,000 lire.

WOODS ORGANIZES COASTER SPORTS

C. G. Woods of Grand View avenue, has become a sport fan and patron of the auto coaster races, which are held Wednesday and Saturday afternoons on North Pacific avenue.

A great many people in Glendale know nothing about these races in which the boys of North Pacific avenue, the majority of whom have made their own coasters, in the form of toy automobiles, compete with each other, and by skillful maneuvering, develop great speed and skill.

Mr. Woods had been watching them for some time and became interested when his nephew, William Simpson, who is his guest for the summer, got into the game in company with a neighbor boy, Lynn Leach. When the boys of Pacific avenue learned of these two, a delegation was sent to challenge and try them out. When one of the Pacific avenue representatives won, he left the track with swaggering superiority and the declaration: "You fellows are not in our class."

Mr. Woods has now invited these boys and all the boys of Glendale similarly equipped, to a race to take place Wednesday afternoon, August 17, at 3 o'clock, and the victor will receive a purse of $5.

The track will extend from L. C. Brand's gate to Kenneth road on Grand avenue, and it will be a standing start. Only one street will cross the track and guards will be stationed there to prevent accidents.

Should the contestants be very numerous several races will take place, and the victors will then compete against each other for the prize. The age limit will be 15 years.

ALPHA GIRLS LOSE LIKE GOOD SPORTS

The girls of the Alpha Omega class are wearing mourning as a result of the loss of a contest between them and the Live Cole class, of the Central Christian church.

Tomorrow night they will entertain the victors at the church bungalow.

The Alpha Omegas are, however, anticipating as much fun out of the affair as their happy competitors.
